

Become a Birthday Party Entertainer!

Whatever makes you cool, interesting, or talented? Someone's parent will pay you to bring that energy to their kid's party. Your niche IS your superpower.

Ages 10 - 14

Best for: THE STORYTELLER entrepreneur type

Your Weird Talent Is Worth $50-$100 Per Party 🎉

Here's something most kids don't realize: that "random" thing you're good at — the thing your friends think is cool but you've never imagined getting PAID for? Parents will hire you to do it at birthday parties. Because every parent faces the same problem every year: "How do I make this party memorable and keep 15 kids entertained for 2 hours without losing my mind?"

The answer isn't always a bounce house or a clown. Sometimes it's a kid who can teach an epic LEGO building challenge. Or run a Minecraft-themed craft station. Or lead a backyard sports clinic. Or perform magic tricks. Or set up the world's coolest domino chain that all the kids help build and then knock down together. Entertainment doesn't have one shape — it has YOUR shape.

🔊 "But I Don't Have a Talent" — Yes You Do

If you think you don't have an entertaining skill, you're just not thinking creatively enough. Can you build cool stuff with LEGO? That's a workshop. Can you do card tricks? That's a magic show. Are you good at a sport? That's a skills clinic. Can you make slime? That's a craft station. Can you tell stories with funny voices? That's a performance. Can you set up elaborate domino runs? That's a SPECTACLE — and spectacles are exactly what parties need. A bird that rides a tiny bicycle went viral and got booked for events. If a bird can do it, you definitely can.

YOUR Weird Talent Here

Yo-yo tricks? Speed cubing? Beatboxing? If it's impressive, it's bookable.

👁️ Sneak Peek: From the Full Guide

"The 'Take-Home Factor' is what separates a good party entertainer from one who gets booked every weekend. If every kid at the party goes home with something they MADE — a bracelet, a slime jar, a painting, a LEGO creation, a bath bomb — the parents of those kids see it and ask 'Who did this at the party?' That's 15 sets of parents hearing about you from their own excited child. The take-home item is your business card. It costs you $1-$3 per kid in supplies and generates referrals worth hundreds of dollars. Budget it in. It's not an expense — it's your best marketing."

Parents: The full guide is designed to work for ANY kid — artistic, athletic, techy, outdoorsy, or performance-oriented. We include a "Talent Audit" worksheet that helps kids identify what they're good at and match it to a party entertainment format. Safety guidelines cover age-appropriate activities, supply material safety (non-toxic art supplies, food-allergy awareness for cooking activities), crowd management with different age groups, and the importance of a parent being present at all party gigs. For supply-based activities (slime, painting, bath bombs), we list only kid-safe, non-toxic materials. We recommend parents attend the first 2-3 party bookings to help with logistics and build their teen's confidence before they run sessions independently.
